

TOM'S DAILY

Women's division

Last year's winners CUSB Shout have been dominating pool N with 4 victories. They only defeated Swiss team MICZ on universe point but other than that these girls have been very convincing so far. These MICZ also needed a double game point to overcome dutch team Tilt but had two strong wins over the french national ladies team and LUV from Belgium. Last year's runners up Yaka aren't here this year, but France has some strong representation with the national women's team and Western Ladies in the other pool. Speaking of which: XEUCF silver medalists U de Cologne have also been looking strong throughout day 1. Nobody managed to score more than 7 points against them, but they still need to face their main rivals in pool M Copenhagen Hucks. Western Ladies from France is close behind with 2 defeats and 2 victories but anything is still possible in this women's division, of which the overall level seems to have grown fairly since last year.

Open 1

We all know how the top teams in the open division are doing. They slowly but surely worked their way into the upper pool. But what about those few lone riders who still have a shot at claiming the crown? Let us help you out with a simple explanation: In Open Division 1 there were 6 pools of 4 teams.

The 6 teams that ended 1st, and the 6 teams that ended 2nd made it to the upper pool along with the 4 best 3rds. Still with us? This makes a total of 16 teams in the upper pool and 8 teams in the lower pool. But fear not, all teams are still in the running as today we will be seeing pre-quarters in which the lowest ranked teams can still make it up there.

Excitement guaranteed. Can we challenge you to send us your predictions for the quarter finals? Best bet on the official Tom's Tourney's Facebook page wins a special prize to be picked up at the Get Horizontal booth.

Open 2

Open division 2 only has 4 pools in which mostly Blue Arse Flies, Sesquidistus, Breizh United and Play are rocking hard. Close behind are the local organisers FreezzzBeezzz, CUSB Zero51, Terco Vieja Guardia and Helgtre. We're excited for some more action today, and we strongly suggest all of you to keep rocking hard and enjoy TT as much as you possibly can. Did we mention we've got some free drinks and a wicked party coming up tonight? Well now we have. See you on the dance floor tonight!

This was THURSDAY

Fank you Friday

In the Ultimate world, TD usually stands for Tournament Director. In this case the TD is called Glenn, and although he is a living legend and a rock-solid foundation for this lovely tournament, for once we would like to change it around to „Triple Dedication“. That’s about what it takes for ALL volunteers to put an event like this. If you take a second and think about the amount of voluntary work necessary to make you enjoy this tournament as much as you are doing now, you’ll probably realise it takes a ton of work. And that is simply why we would like to proclaim today as FANK YOU FRIDAY. If you see a volunteer, give them a little sign of appreciation. A “thank you” for example, or in this case a little „fank you“. A hug would also do, but let’s not push it here. We travel all around the world to enjoy this crazy sport and without the power of the people we would all be sitting at home and watching TV. What else to counter this with than a little „THANK YOU“? “Fank you” perhaps?

CLEAN YOUR SH*T

Please clean up the fields after your game. Yesterday you left a ton of garbage, clothes, shoes and other stuff on the fields after the games. We kindly ask you to clean up so the TT crew doesn't have to waste time making sure you can play on a clean field. FANK YOU!
